

Servant's Corner

March 2013

How Do You Make Them Feel?

By Rich Henderson, Love INC Director

...having loved His own who were in the world, He loved them to the end. John 13:1

Mother Teresa reportedly said, “They may not remember what you said. They may not even remember what you did. But they will always remember how you made them feel.” In the verse above, the Apostle John records how Jesus made him and the other Apostles feel—loved.

How do we make the people in need that we serve feel?

Inferior? That’s a possibility. If we consider ourselves to be superior to those we are helping, it is likely that they will pick up on this attitude. Even if we don’t say anything, our body language can give us away.

Burdensome? Do they get the idea that it is a huge sacrifice for us to serve them, that we are very busy people and we really have to hurry along to get to more important things?

Insignificant? This can happen when we focus on the need more than the person. We men are especially prone to this. We can get so focused on fixing the problem that we forget the person. Sometimes a person’s greatest need is to have someone listen to them.

Valued? Befriended? Cared for? Loved? Ask the Holy Spirit to empower you to leave that fragrance behind the next time you help someone.

Servant's Corner

March 2013

How Do You Make Them Feel?

By Rich Henderson, Love INC Director

...having loved His own who were in the world, He loved them to the end. John 13:1

Mother Teresa reportedly said, “They may not remember what you said. They may not even remember what you did. But they will always remember how you made them feel.” In the verse above, the Apostle John records how Jesus made him and the other Apostles feel—loved.

How do we make the people in need that we serve feel?

Inferior? That’s a possibility. If we consider ourselves to be superior to those we are helping, it is likely that they will pick up on this attitude. Even if we don’t say anything, our body language can give us away.

Burdensome? Do they get the idea that it is a huge sacrifice for us to serve them, that we are very busy people and we really have to hurry along to get to more important things?

Insignificant? This can happen when we focus on the need more than the person. We men are especially prone to this. We can get so focused on fixing the problem that we forget the person. Sometimes a person’s greatest need is to have someone listen to them.

Valued? Befriended? Cared for? Loved? Ask the Holy Spirit to empower you to leave that fragrance behind the next time you help someone.